Georgia Items UNFORTUNATE OCCURRENCE.-A large number of our citizens were attracted towards the Augusta Hotel last evening, about 3 o'clock, by the report of two or three pistol shots. On inquiry we learned that a young man, Mr. John Jones, was behaving disorderly in the hotel, when the proprietor requested Mr. Thomas Callahan, the police officer or the beat, to arrest him. The officer, while attempting to make the arrest, was fired at three times by Jones, the third shot taking effect over the left breast, making an ugly but not very dangerous wound. Notwithstanding the wound, the officer made the arrest, and was in the act of taking Jones to the Court House when a relief came to officer Callahan was then taken to the drug store of Messrs. Beal & Hankerson, where his wound was probed and dressed by Drs. Doughty and Sweeney. Owing to some difficulty, the cause of which we did not learn, the ball was not ex-

Mr. Callahan has proven himself a brave and efficient officer, and even his temporary absence from duty is to be regretted.—Augusta Chronicle. MYSTERIOUS AND DARING MURDER NEAR ATLANTA. -Yesterday evening, just before sunset, a very worthy man, who had been a private in Captain Daniel Pittman's company, was murdered on the Peachtree road, in less than two miles from the passenger depot, in a bold, yet very mysterious manner.

Just before that time Judge Pittman and Col.
Prather, formerione of the proprietors of the Era, had passed the spot outward in a buggy, and having gone a half mile beyond, turned to come back. They met several wagons and carts, and finally came to this, in which was a yoke of oxen, and a few feet from it, in the road, the murdered and a few feet from it, in the road, the intureror man, Mr. John Plasiter, who was about thirty-five years of age, and who had been to town with a load of wood. There was a wound in the forehead, and one in the back of the head, as if a ball or slug had passed entire! Through the brain; but it was impossible to say whether he was shot from the front or rear. The hole in the forehead was not rough but irregular. The object of the murnot round, but irregular. The object of the mur-derer it is difficult to divine, as he was a pee cable and inoffensive citizen, and could hardly have had money enough to have tempted the perpetration of Judge Pittman and Colonel Prather had him taken to a house near by, where they left him in an unconscious and dying state, and returned to the city, where, meeting with Drs. Alexander and II, they communicated the circumstances, Campbell, they communicated the circumstances, and the two physicians went to examine the unfortunate victim and see what could be done for him, if anything.

To have so cold-blooded and so causeless a murder committed on one of the most travelled highways leading to the city, within two miles of its centre, and in the broad light of day, is something these and is certainly alarming. We trust unusual here, and is certainly alarming. We trust that nothing will be left undone calculated to lead to the discovery of the murderer, and bring him to justice. We did not learn whether Mr. Plasiter left a family or not, but the presumption is that he did. He lived about three miles from town.

MUNIFICENT DONATION.—The Mayor received some days ago the following letter from St. L'ouis, which was followed in a short time by the contributions to which it refers. The provisions now remain stored in the commission house of Messrs. Glenn, Wright & Carr, from which point they will be issued to the proper persons by Captain Castleberry, Chairman of the Belief Committee. The fund being raised by the ladies of St, Louis, and the object being to give relief to the widows and orphans of Confederate soldiers, we are authorized to state that the instructions to that end will be to state that the instructions to that end will be carried out to the letter, there being in this city a large number of persons who may be embraced under that head. To the zeal of Mr. Walter C. Carr, a member of the Distributing Committee of St. Longs, may the recipients of this munificent donation feel indebted for the promptness with which the packages were forwarded. But to the St. Louis, February 8, 1867.

Accident made him a merchant. Where he was to be in connection with an experienced business man and to contribute capital he suddenly found himself principal alone, charged with the rent of a store, and with the whole responsibility devolving on him. With that indomitable will and wonderful emergy which has marked his whole life he at once went back to Ireland, converted into money the moderate fortune which he had inherited, invested that fortune in goods—principally the laces which were manufactured at and around his birthplace—and them returned to New York and opened his

Her husband was dead, but before his death had Her husband was dead, but before his death had squandered her fortune. Procuring good apartments, he caused them to be furnished in a style corresponding with her former position in life. Then calling upon her and renewing his acquaintance, and after conversing on old times and former friends, asked her to take a drive with him around the city in his carriage; which stood at the door. After looking at some objects of interest he took her to her new residence, saving: "This, if it. After looking at some "objects of interest he took her to her new residence, saying: "This, if it meets your approbation, is your future home." He settled an annuity upon her, and during the residue of her life she lived not only in comfort, but in comparative affinence, supported entirely by his bounty. Truly, if she brought luck to the young merchant, that first morning's purchase was a lucky one for her.

But there was another incident, connected with the sale of merchandise on that first day, of far more importance in its results, though apparently more importance in its results, though apparently trifling in its character. One of the clerks stated to a purchaser that a piece of calico was of a cer-tain quality; that the colors were "fast" and would tain quality, that the colors were "fast" and would not wash out, and if not so, the article would be taken back and the money returned. The remarks were overheard by Mr. Stewart, and he called the clerk to him and spoke with indignation: "What do you mean by thus saying what you know to be untrue?" The clerk, perhaps astonished at thus being called to account, replied that the woman would not return the goods, and if she did she could easily be put off by stating that she must be mistaked, and the purchase must have been made at some other store. But no; that was not the point. A lie had been told to induce a purchase; and no goods must be sold in his store or in his name under any misrepresentation whatever. The clerk could conform to that rule or at once vacate his places. This interview between him and one of his place: This interview between him and one of his first clerks: was narrated to the writer a few years since when in a familiar conversation the direct question was asked: "To what do you at-I have conducted my business from the first on the basis of truth. WANTED, BY TELEGRAPH, THE TRUTH.—When the Queen of Great Britain opened Parliament in person, on the 5th of February, we were informed by the Atlantic cable that, while the downpuring rain had failed to keep the crowd in-doors, "not a single cheer" attended the passage of her Majesty from the Palace to the Senate House. This was expressly dispatched to was as a most delicities and expressly dispatched to us as a most striking and ominous piece of news, fitted to give one a very vivid notion of the depth and intensity of the rising revolutionary sentiment in England. We have now received the English journals of the 6th of February, in which it is distinctly stated that "hats and handkercheis were tumultuously war ad as her Majesty passed along, and loud and enthusiastic cheers rose from the voices of tens of thousands!" It is grossly improbable that on such a subject as this the local reporters should misstate a fact within the knowledge of and liable to instant correction by the whole population of the metropolis. expressly dispatched to us as a most striking and

The prize consists of one year's free instruction and perpetual free admission to certain lectures always interesting and instructive, the money value of which is not far from two hundred dollars. The degree of application necessary for competition for the "Arnott Scholarship" may be inferred from the fact, that out of two hundred ways a ledies 'helonging to Onem's College only young ladies belonging to Queen's College, only five had the courage to enter the lists. That a young lady of seventeen, of American parentage, should have achieved success in this educational

AGRICULTURAL. BAUGH'S

RAW-BONE PHOSPHATE.

200 TONS DAILY EXPECTED. S THE AGENT FOR THE ABOVE MANURE, A 8 THE AGENT FOR THE ABOVE MANURE, I all last year submitted to Profe for Shepard, of the South Carolina Medical College, a tample for analysis, and, with his endorsement, recommended it to my planting friends. I am now pleased to say that their practical experience fully confirms the Professor's opinion of its value as a manure.

The best evidence that the results of its use on cotton last year were satisfactory lies in the fact that those who then used it are this year buying it again, and in in-who then used it are this year buying it again, and in increased amounts.

A cargo of BAUGH'S RAW-BONE PHOSPHATE is now in transit for this port, and, in conformity with my uniform rule, it will be sampled and analyzed by Professor Shepard upon arrival. The manufacturers have, however, placed in my hands an analysis of the cargo, made when the professor Williams of Bulkinglands, which shows the by Professor Williams, cf Philadelphia, which shows the standard of the MANURE to be fully up to that of last The following is the report of Professor Williams, re-PHILADELPHIA, January 22, 1867.

Measrs. Baugh & Sons:
GENTLEMEN: I have analyzed the sample of your Super-Phosphate handed me some days since, and find it to be composed as follows:

I have examined, and this, in connection with the readily soluble condition of the Bone Phosphate when acted upon by weak acids—for instance, Carbonic Acid—will account for the markedly avorable results which have been obtained from the application of your fertilizer. THE COMPOSITION OF THIS GUANOIS IDEN-TICAL WITH PERUVIAN. IT DIFFERS ONLY IN THE PROPORTIONS OF THE SAME ELEMENTS.

WHILE IT CONTAINS LESS AMMONIA, IT HAS nearly twice the quantity of Phosphate of Lime, 15 per cent. of which is immediately soluble. Its effects V nearly twice the quantity of Phosphate of Lime, 15 per cent. of which is immediately soluble. Its effects on Cotton the past season have, in many instances, excelled Peruvian Guano. It has in no case proved less active in the early growth of the crop. When drought intervenes the crop. does not suffer from its use as is we case with Peruvian Guano. By reason of the presence in it of so large a per cent. of Phosphate of Lime its use improves the soil to an extent that cannot be realized fron Peruvian Guano.

Every cargo of this Guano is subjected to rigid inspection analysis, and is soid on a basis of actual value.

The undersigned, Agent, is prepared to furnish the testimony of well known South Carolina planters in evidence of the superior excellence of this Guano.

J. N. ROBSON, Agent, December 4 tuthsru3mo NO. 62 EAST BAY.

E. FRANK COE'S SUPER PHOSPHATE OF LIME BONE DUST MANURE.

WE BEG TO CALL THE ATTENTION OF PLANT-ERS to the above as a superior manure for either Corn or Cotton, the experience of last year proving it equal if not superior to Peruvian Guano.

The following is the report of an analysis made from a --- 37.00

Sulphate of Lime and traces of Sulphate of Ammonia, Potash, Soda and Magnesia, with some free Sulphuric Acid, about....

Hygrometic Water expelled at 212 degroes...

Combined Water (a portion of this belongs to the Phosphate of Lime, which was estimated after its ignition; the greater part of balance is doubtless associated with the Animal Matter) and Animal Matter...

Silica (Sand)... 8.00 23.00 30.00 ilica (Sand).....

The Animal Matter, as might be supposed in a fertilizer so largely derived from fish, is less highly nitrogenized than that in the Peruvian Guano. Still it will afford, during the process of decomposition, about three per cent. of Ammonia. The Oil (which is remarLably abundant) of Ammonia. The Oil (which is remarkably abundant) though not generally reckoned among Manures, being here associated with other less stable animal principles, cannot fail of adding to the value of the mixture, especially on light soils. The insoluble Phosphate being thoroughly organized and, at the same time, minutely divided, is also well adapted to a gradual appropriation by the plant.

According to the present sample, COE'S SUPER, PHOSPHATE is a judiciously and faithfully manufactured Manure, and will not disappoint those who will give it a trial. Even if employed alone, I should expect CHARLES UPHAM SHEPARD. (Signed)

"EXCELSIOR" SPRING WATER THE WATER OF THIS SPRING IS BELIEVED TO be unequalled by that of any other in the far-famed valley of Saratoga. Its virtues are such as have secured it the high encomiums of all who have used it, possessing, as it does, in an eminent degree, cathartic, diuretic, alterative and tonic qualities.

I have been for a year or more past in the habit of taking the water of the "Excelsior" Spring of Saratoga. Accustomed during the great portion of my invalid life to use the different waters of the several fountains which boil up along that remarkable valley, dependent, indeed, upon them for much of the comfort I enjoy, I am satisfied that the Excelsior Water is as well adapted as any other among them, if not more so, to the purposes for which they are generally employed. It is very agreeable, strongly impregnated with the carbonic acid, lively and sparking. * * I can heartily and conscientiously recommend it to all who need a gentle cathartic and diuretic.
